Thermostat Control

A message from your District Executive Minister

We finally had to turn on our air conditioning after trying to suffer through some hot nights when the sheets stick to your body every time you turn over in bed. I tend to want to set the thermostat at a lower temperature than my wife. Although we both agree that the house needs to be cooler, we sometimes don’t agree on where to set the thermostat. I think the same thing could be said about our congregations and pastoral leadership.

I believe that the church leaders of any church are the emotional thermostat of the congregation. If the church leaders are anxious, the congregation is most likely to be anxious. If the church leaders are upset about a situation or event that took place in the congregation, district or denomination, it is likely that many others are upset about the same situation or event. If the church leaders are irascible and grumpy with each other, it is safe to assume that several others in the congregation are a little edgy and grumpy with each other. And if the church leaders relate to each other in a cynical and sarcastic manner, it is likely that many others are treated the same way.

I also believe that the same analogy applies to our pastors and their leadership. It doesn’t take a rocket scientist to figure out that our pastors are the theological and spiritual thermostat of the congregation. Some people even believe that a congregation rises or falls to the emotional, spiritual and theological maturity of the pastor.

In my visits to congregations and with pastors, I have found a variety of thermostat settings. I sometimes wonder how high or how low do we set the emotional, spiritual and theological thermostat of our congregations? But perhaps the bigger question is, “How do we know what is the right ‘setting’ that allows us to continue the work of Jesus. Peacefully. Simply. Together?”.

Don Booz
How to Perfect Your Leadership Triangle

The most effective pastors, staff, committee chairs, and ministry-team coordinators possess three skills in equal proportions: relational, organizational, and spiritual.

Relational Leadership

Yes, church leaders need more than relational skill. But without relational skill, other skills become irrelevant.

Relational skill includes twenty qualities:

1. Joyful Attitude—spiritual institutions whose leaders need a joy transfusion attract few participants.
2. Sense of Humor—counteracts the tendency to develop an overly serious demeanor that is the personality equivalent of a turpentine bottle.
3. Enthusiasm—displayed in facial expressions, body language, and words.
4. Optimism—which the Bible calls hope. People who dispense this quality in their conversations tend to attract rather than repel allegiance to themselves and their goals.
5. Caring Spirit—genuine interest in people and a concern for their individual needs.
6. Indiscriminate Affirmation—praise-filled conversations, despite bushels of reasons to go in the opposite direction.
7. Sensitivity—the ability to understand people and their reaction patterns.
8. Objectivity—the ability to accurately assess and respond to reality, which protects people from seeing issues through a window of bias and emotional distortion.
9. Forgiving Spirit—a poor memory of wrongs done by others, which counterbalances the wrongs observed via objectivity.
10. Nonjudgmental Nature—the habit of communicating grace to people who do not share identical moral, ethical, or religious standards.
11. Receptive Listener—able to gather information and insights from conversations with people who express a wide variety of concerns and opinions.
12. Openness to Considering New Ideas—the inclination to express a “Why not?” attitude when listening to a proposal, instead of blocking new ideas by immediately citing several reasons why they won’t work.
13. Forthrightness—the courage to sensitively share concerns with others, even at the risk of alienation.
14. Communication Skill—the ability to clearly express ideas and goals.
15. Effective Conflict Manager—with regard to both personal criticism and organizational-conflict issues.
16. Cooperative Spirit—a team player who can mesh personal goals with those of other church leaders, in contrast to coming across as defensive, paranoid, or argumentative.
17. Honesty and Integrity—consistently (a) keeping promises, (b) functioning responsibly, even when tasks are not especially enjoyable, (c) leading a disciplined moral life, and (d) communicating identical information to various groups and individuals, rather than shading reality to tell people what they want to hear.
19. High Energy Level—the stamina to maintain a fast pace and juggle several demands simultaneously, without complaining of overwork.
20. Positive Appearance—clean, neat, and appropriate apparel, shined shoes, and well-kept hair.

Can you think of people serving in church roles who lack one or several of these relational qualities? Does that deficiency damage their leadership influence?
Organizational Leadership

Not all church leaders with high relational skills possess strong organizational abilities. An executive coach who works with both churches and corporations lists five prescriptions for successful leaders of organizations:

1. Get clear regarding goals and standards. Understand what you are trying to accomplish and how you plan to measure the results.

2. Communicate goals and standards. Make sure that everyone is clear about expectations and feels accountable for results.

3. Set direction for and coordinate the work of others. Develop a disposition toward delegation—the inclination to coach the team rather than try to play all of the positions.

4. Address problems sooner rather than later. Instead of running from potential conflict, approach it as an opportunity to care about people and increase their satisfaction with a job well done.

5. Provide feedback to team members. Frequently applaud actions that support the organization’s goals. When things do not go well, explain why a change in approach is beneficial. [Scott Eblin, “Pastors and Managers,” Congregations, September/October 2001, The Albin Institute, pp. 22-24]

Can you think of people serving in church roles who lack one or more of these organizational qualities? Does that deficiency damage their leadership influence?

Spiritual Leadership

Effective church leaders possess more than relational and organizational skills. They give the overall impression that encouraging people to strengthen their spiritual connection with God is one of their primary goals.

The five behaviors listed below are not the only means by which people achieve spiritual growth. However, people in a national survey said that these five are the most powerful means by which they moved closer to God and grew in fellowship with God is one of their primary goals.

1. Worship: This helps us to focus on God and to sense God’s presence. Be deciding to worship, we say that we are not sufficient by ourselves. We need another God besides our own ego.

2. Prayer: This lets God into our lives in four primary ways. Through prayer, God (a) changes our reality, (b) speaks to us, (c) redecorates our interiors, and (d) moves us toward our life goals. Until we are ready to put ourselves second instead of first, we do not pray.

3. Fellowship: This is one of God’s ways of reinforcing our inclination to spiritually connect with, and stay connected with, God’s goals for our life. Fellowship with other Christians increases our self-esteem in ways that make us more open to (a) listening to God’s guidance and (b) making positive changes in our lives.

4. Bible Study: This is another tool that helps us hear God speaking to us and moves us closer to God in our thinking and behavior. Participation in a regularly meeting group that focuses on Bible study helps us stick to our values and ideals.

5. Financial Stewardship: Why do the four Gospels report Jesus talking more about money than about love or repentance? Then, as now, people are tempted to put the god of their money ahead of the real God; and thus, break the first commandment—“You shall have no other gods before me” (Exodus 20:3). Giving financially to God keeps money idolatry from replacing God and destroying our ability to grow spiritually.

Can you think of people serving in church roles who lack one or more of these spiritual qualities? Does that deficiency damage their leadership influence?

Equalizing Your Triangle

The three sides of an equilateral triangle are the same length. Shortening one side changes the triangle’s character. Most people serving in church roles are stronger in one of their triangle’s three sides than in the other two. They rationalize that imbalance by thinking, “If I excel in my gifted side, the other two sides will take care of themselves.” That assumption is inaccurate.

Productive self-evaluation requires feedback from others. Pick six people whom you trust. Ask them to meet with you as a group for two hours. Open the meeting by asking everyone to keep the discussion confidential.

Hand each person a copy of this Parish Paper issue. Without discussion, ask each person to rank you on each item, using a scale of one to ten, with ten being the highest. Ask people not to sign their names.

Collect the sheets. During a break, ask someone to tabulate the answers and calculate the average score for each item. Distribute another copy of this Parish Paper issue. As you read the averages aloud, ask group members to write the average beside each of the items.

On the five items with the highest scores, go around the room, asking everyone to say one sentence regarding why she or he thinks that score is high.

On the five items with the lowest scores, go around the room, asking everyone to say one sentence regarding how you might strengthen that quality.

Articulate to the group any points at which you need their help or the help of other church leaders in strengthening these traits.

Close with one-sentence prayers, asking each person in the group to pray.

The Bottom Line

In which side of the leadership triangle are you most gifted? How can you lengthen the other two sides?
Passports to Peace

La Verne Church of the Brethren
A church designed one week experience

Campers will interview “ambassadors” from Nigeria, China, Puerto Rico and Iraq who are excited to teach us about life in those countries/regions! During our week together campers will learn how to be citizens of the world and will create passports in order to “travel” throughout the Global Village to experience:

- “Olympic Stadium”
- “United Nations Hospitality Tent”
- Make crafts inspired from around the globe!

A full week of evenings from 5:30 – 8:00 p.m. As always we begin our time together in the sanctuary with a short presentation and then we move into rotations from:

- Silk screening and tie-dyeing t-shirts
- Cooking
- Drumming
- Service

The final hour of the evening is our Global Village featuring up to 15 different crafts or activities of the camper’s choice.

We hold registrations to the first 80 kids (Ages: Kindergarten to 6th grade students) Cost for the week, including snacks and craft materials is $25 per person. Campers are divided into 4 groups. Each group has one or two adults and a junior counselor. (Past campers who have aged out but still want to participate in Peace Camp)

The goal for Peace Camp, 2012 is for campers to meet with an “ambassador” who will teach them some basics about being a resident from a particular country/region, e.g., typical activities of kids, food, school, weather, clothing, liberties, etc. The campers will then become citizens and it will be their opportunity to share goodwill among the other citizens at Peace Camp. They will make passports and share goodwill tokens with each other when they share or learn a new fact about another country/region.

Our “ambassadors” are all volunteers from the community at large and not necessarily from the countries they are representing but they do all have personal connections, family or life experiences that make them passionate about the country they are representing.

PSWD Youth Retreat
April 2012

Nineteen Youth and five Advisors from all around the District gathered at Camp La Verne for a spiritual retreat planned and led by the outgoing 2011/2012 Youth Cabinet. This fun and meaningful weekend included a campfire, a lakeside walk with God, outdoor worship, and Camp La Verne’s first Disco!!

The Scriptural theme was Colossians 3:12-14 “Therefore, as God’s chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience. Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you. And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity.”

As we explored this theme through activities and personal sharing, it was obvious that these Brethren Youth love fellowship and are excited about all the different ways we embody “the church” together.

San Diego Anniversary
Unbroken Circle of Love – 100 Years of Ministry

Kickoff is the Fairmount Neighborhood Block Party on August 11. Worship Sunday August 12 will celebrate the Unbroken Circle of Love with Susan Boyer. Historic videos from the 100 years of Ministry will be shown each Sunday before worship. The videos will be collected onto a DVD for the celebration conclusion. Children’s Peace Camp
Modesto Church of the Brethren

Live simply. Live peacefully. Live together

This year, Kid’s Peace Week will explore ideas about living simply and leaving a smaller footprint on the earth. Each day we will focus how to be better caretakers of resources by not having too much stuff and recycling and reusing the things we have. Prepare to learn about garbage, pollution, and how thoughtful people can make a difference to preserve the beauty and health of our planet.

Who can participate? Kids’ Peace Week is open to children entering kindergarten to those who have completed 6th grade. A full week of mornings from 9am-Noon. Cost is $15 per person. The fee includes a t-shirt, all snacks and a Friday field trip from 9am-4pm to Calveras Big Trees (lunch included on the trip).

Phone Apps for Ministry

Don Booz found and tried the iPhone versions of these app categories. See how they can extend your ministry.

Our web version has live links. www.pswdcob.org/publications

AutoMileage
This app is great for keeping track of mileage and IRS obligations. It connects with a spreadsheet that gives data about mileage, purpose and accrued mileage reimbursement. There is also an electronic logbook that produces a google map just in case there is a return trip needed.

- iPhone – Automilez
- Android – TripLog

Zite
This app provides an electronic newspaper about “healthy” and informational news, instead of what we see on T.V. I have found Zite to be an excellent resource for sermon material.

- iPhone – Zite
- Android – Zite

Pedometer
This is a great app to keep track of the many miles we walk here and there from parking lots to hospitals to meetings to home. Most of us will be shocked to see how far we walk in a normal week that goes unnoticed.

- iPhone – Pedometer FREE
- Android – All-in Pedometer

Mindfulness
For those of us who need to slow down and meditate in silence. This is a great app to keep track of our silent time(s). The great thing about this app is that it allows us to take even a 3 minute silent meditation. And for those who like to keep track, there is a statistic log that keeps track of the number of meditation sessions and the total meditation time.

2011 / 2012 Youth Cabinet
Accomplished Great Things

Our Youth Cabinet did a great job bringing youth together and planning activities for District Conference and planning the Spring Retreat!

2012 / 2013 Youth Cabinet
Ready to Embrace the Future

Youth from our district churches have turned in their applications for the cabinet that begins work at Summer’s close. These youth will enjoy the opportunity to grow in Christian leadership, have fun making new friends, and represent your congregation on the District Youth Cabinet!

Churches and youth obtained the applications from my email campaign and website. The new cabinet will be announced on the web in July.

Looking forward ...

July 2012 ~
• 2012/2013 Youth Cabinet will be announced
August 2012 ~
• First meeting of the new Youth Cabinet to begin planning District Conference activities for Youth.
November 9-11, 2012 ~

Harvey E. Good, professor of Biology emeritus at the University of La Verne, Calif. & member of Pomona Fellowship CoB, has been instrumental in providing a shipment of 20 boxes of scientific instruments and laboratory supplies to Pyongyang University of Science and Technology (PUST) in North Korea. The donated materials support the teaching effort of Robert and Linda Shank, Church of the Brethren members who serve on the PUST faculty with support from the church’s Global Mission and Service office. Robert Shank is dean of Agriculture and Life Sciences at PUST and reported that his students were “ecstatic” about the new opportunities they will receive through the donated supplies. Harvey Good wrote to the Shanks: “We sincerely hope that the donation of this equipment will in some small way will help to alleviate the famine and lack of nutrition in North Korea.”
